

Green Up Your Next Off-Site Meeting

Looking for some ideas on how to green your off-site meetings? Start with a sustainable location. Check out this “Green Meetings” presentation for more information on choosing a green hotel:

To locate a hotel with at least some awareness or attempt at sustainability, check out these sites:

Green Hotels Association

Greener Hotels

Green Key Global

There’s no guarantee that these hotels are “greener” than the hotel down the street from them, but at least they’ve taken a step or two in their journey toward greater sustainability.

If you’d like to find a hotel that is truly committed to  sustainability through third party auditing and verification, look for a Green Globe Certified Hotel and check out the criteria they follow to earn their place among the most sustainable hotels in the world.

If you have another site you’d like to add to the list, or if you have a tip on how to green meetings, please comment on this posting.

To learn more about sustainable meetings and events, check out the Green Meetings Industry Council, an organization committed to education and activities related to planning better meetings.

Want to see an example of a green hotel? Check out this Hospitality World Network article about the Aria.