

What do you love about your Class B RV?

If you're thinking about buying a Class B RV, you might be surprised to know how much there is to love about traveling small.

It's easy to drive.

If you've ever owned an RV over 22', you know that it can sometimes be a challenge to drive and park. With a Class B RV under 22', you can park it nearly anywhere. It's much like driving a long-bed truck. It's easy to handle, even for people who minimal experience driving larger vehicles.

It makes it easy to travel.

You can keep all your necessities stocked in the RV. This includes your bed, bath, kitchen and closet. When we want to do a road trip, we load up some food and clothes and we're ready to head out.

You can go almost anywhere a car can go.

With a Class B RV under 22', you can park in most parking lots, and parallel park in most streets. In tourist areas or destination spots, you need to check for signs that might restrict vehicles over a certain height, but in general, you can park almost anywhere. It's much easier to park a Class B RV than larger rigs or trailers.

You can sleep in your own bed.

If you're visiting friends or family, you can "spend the night" in your own bed. You can spend all day visiting and checking out local attractions, but when it comes time to sleep, you just walk out to your RV. There's no need to plan for extra time or rides to go back and forth to a hotel. This places minimal impact on your family and friends, especially if they don't have a guest room or if it's occupied by others during your visit.

You can squeeze in at "full" campgrounds.

Because Class B RVs are small compared to other RVs, sometimes you can get a spot even when a campground is "full." When we learned about this from a fellow Pleasure-Way owner, we put it to the test and sure enough we were able to squeeze into a "full" campground on a 4th of July weekend. A Class B RV is quite small relative to large bus-size motorhomes or long fifth wheel tow rigs.

It's fun to personalize

Since it's a small space, you can quickly change the decor by swapping out just a few items such as pillows, window treatments, seat covers, towels, and other hanging items. You can decorate for holidays or special events and then quickly change it around again in less than an hour.

It's a terrific way to get around when you have time to travel.

Whether you're retired or just looking for a weekend getaway van, a Class B RV is a terrific way to get around. It's small enough to park in most driveways or streets in front of homes, so it can be on standby until you're ready to roll.

It's nice to be able to shower and get cleaned up in your own space.

If you're used to traveling by plane, you know you need to build in extra time to get out of the airport and checked into your hotel. And once you're settled in the hotel, you need to plan time to get to the local venues and attractions. When you're traveling in a Class B RV, you can shower and get cleaned up almost anywhere, including the parking lot of many attractions. Once you're cleaned up, you can walk straight into the park or activity you have planned for the day.

You can control the temperature.

Most Class B RVs come equipped with heaters and air conditioners, so it's easy to stay comfortable all day long, whatever that means to you. During moderate temperatures, you may not need to use either one. You can conserve energy by cracking windows, using an installed Fantastic fan, positioning your rig to capture more or less sun through the windows, or strategically adding Reflectix window covers to block sun or conserve heat.
